MAKE MILLIONS IN RUGS.

Americans Control Many of the Big Factories in India.

In 1905-6 there were manufactured in India and exported carpets and rugs to the value of $1,900,000, of which $1,590,000 in value went to the United Kingdom and $400,000. in value to the United States. Most of the finest rugs that were shipped to the United States of Indian manufacture were made in factories controlled by American capital. One firm alone controls ten factories, one each in Kashmir, Hyderabad and Sikkim, the others being scattered over two-thirds of India. This firm employs 15,000 people, half of whom are females engaged in spinning and the other half on the hand looms.

Practically all of the rugs made by this firm are manufactured on designs that were worked out in the United States, and are intended to meet the American demand. The colors used are indigenous, purely vegetable, and are prepared upon formulas that have been handed down for centuries from father to son. This firm would be glad to do their manufacturing in the United States, but it has been found to be impossible to induce any considerable number of expert rugmakers to emigrate to the United States, even if there were no legal difficulties in the way, and it is impossible to induce Americans to engage in making rugs by hand, as they are made in India, so that it should be a matter of genuine pride to Americans to know that their countrymen are leading in the enterprise of rugmaking in India and are the first to enter the domain of Thibet to engage in manufacturing.

OUR "INDIAN ACCENT."

Every little while some English writer appears with the theory that the physique of Americans is becoming assimilated to that of the aborigines. It is a philologist, Enid Campbell Dawncey, who now uses this theory to account for the pe-New Westminster, Vancouver and culiarities of American speech as "due to a particular formation of the palate, peculiar originally to the American Indians, but now shared by the invaders." That this is nonsense appears from the fact that to the marked divergence of English and American speech, particularly in the matter of intonation. American speech is much more monotonous and less spontaneous, the regular fall of the voice at the close of sentences being perhaps bookish rather than conversational. Thus American speech, among the cultivated, is apt to be simple, even and logical, like a page of print, while English speech is much more varied and expressive in its cadences .-Springfield Republican.

COULDN'T NAME CAPITALS.

"While this as an age of intellecuality and brains and all that sort of stuff," said a young business man the other day, "you've no idea of the absolute lack of knowledge of little things that most of us have. For instance, recently I was in conversation with a friend and, although we were talking upon some absolutely irrelevant subject, I was startled by suddenly having him ask me: 'What is the capital of Florida?' 'Tallahassee,' I answered, and he thereupon began to ask me the names of capitals of state after state. I answered correctly 30 or more until we came to Texas. Think as I would I could not remember the capital of Texas. When he saw he had me cornered my friend told me of the theory he had that only one man out of every ten had more than a superficial knowledge of these little things. According to him I was the eighth man he had tackled and not one of them could tell without a break the capitals of all the states n the union.—Philadelphia Record.

THE DIFFICULTY.

"He says he has been writing poetry for the last three years." "But I never see any of it in print."

"No, he hasn't convinced the editors yet that it is poetry."--Houston Post.

A SIMILARITY.

"Did it ever occur to you that a forger is very much like a philanthropist?" "I can't say that I see the resemblance."

"Because he makes it a business to write wrong."

Have You Ever Said "I don't see how all the Magazines live?"-

Undoubtedly you have. Probably you have often stood before some news stand and wondered what magazines to buy. There are a lot of magazines. Most of them are mighty good and most of them live because they are good.

But there's one magazine that not only lives but GROWS. There are fifteen or more good reasons for this in every issue. These reasons are its "unbeatable" features - the special articles obtained at enormous cost - the best fiction in the world - and its powerful, sincere editorial purpose.

The September number for example: Every feature is a big one. It is actually stuffed with big, vital news-information that you ought to have, articles that explain things, stories that every member of your family will read with intense delight. Here are some of the extra good things:

Splendid Fiction. Stories-fine ones-by Arthur Stringer Alice Brown, Mary Heaton Vorse, George Fitch and John Fleming Wilson.

"The Tooth Tinkers"—An account by Roy L. McCardell of "Painless Parkers" and their swindles.

"The Czar of Footwear"-Startling facts-all brand newabout the Shoe Machinery Trust, by Judson C. Welliver.

"In Reno Riotous"—A great story of the Johnson-Jeffries fight, by Harris Merton Lyon, filled with personality, crowded with local color, and illustrated just right.

The magazine that not only lives but grows is the magazine that is giving to the country "Peary's Own Story," a $50,000 feature; it is the magazine that is publishing the first English translation in America of M. Rostand's world famous drama "Chantecler." It is "the Best Magazine in America" and it is called
